The New York Times	Why the Palestinian Authority Should Be Shuttered	DIANA BUTTU	Palestinian Authority
The New Yorker	The Dovekeeper and the Children's Intifada How a thirteen-year-old boy in Jerusalem became a Rorschach blot for the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.	GERALDINE BROOKS	Palestinian terrorism
The Washington Post	Why Middle East peace starts in Saudi Arabia "...Ironically, the Iranian threat that grew under Obama offers a unique opportunity for U.S.-Arab and even Israeli-Arab cooperation. Over time, such cooperation could gradually acclimate Arab peoples to a nonbelligerent stance toward Israel. Which might in turn help persuade the Palestinians to make some concessions before their fellow Arabs finally tire of the Palestinians' century of rejectionism. Perhaps that will require a peace process of sorts. No great harm, as long as we remember that any such Israeli-Palestinian talks are for show — until conditions are one day ripe for peace. In the meantime, the real action is on the anti-Iranian and anti-terrorism fronts. Don't let Oslo-like mirages get in the way."	CHARLES KRAUTHAMMER	US-Israel relations, peace process
McClatchy	Trump's move to isolate Iran could further strain Sunni-Shiite relations in Mideast	JESSICA CAMPISI	Iran
